Tell me more about the Camp for All Kids organization...

Camp for All Kids provides access to free renewable overnight summer camp experiences for Black and Brown youth at seven partner camps in Wisconsin and Minnesota. Camp offers a safe environment that fosters independence, fellowship and social-emotional development. Everyone at camp benefits from going together with people from different backgrounds, lived experiences and ethnicities.

The overnight camps that Camp for All Kids partners with include:

Camperships that are awarded are renewable. That means if a child gets accepted to receive a campership to attend camp for this summer, they are invited to continue to receive that campership summer after summer. Many campers start their first year of sleepaway camp when they are in elementary school and continue to return to the same camp until they are in high school (and sometimes into college and beyond!) Camp for All Kids partners with camps that offer 4 week and 8 week camp experiences. First year campers are offered 4-week camp experiences. After the first summer, the camp director and parents of the Camp for All

Kids camper can discuss if extending the experience to 8 weeks is an option- based on their readiness and maturity.

As campers grow, there are also invitations from the camps to apply for leadership training programs and employment positions. This is often referred to as the CIT (Counselor In Training) Program or LT (Leadership Training) Program. Camp for All Kids will help work with enrolled families to offer scholarships for 8-week opportunities and CIT/LT Programs as well.

What do camperships cover? What costs should families expect to pay for as part of the experience?

Camp for All Kids partners with our family of camps to provide full financial support for overnight camp. This includes tuition t, bus transportation, plus all activities and additional expenses associated with overnight camp. Campers often have an established “spending account” that enables them to buy items from the “camp store” or cover the cost of additional activities while they are at camp.

Enrolled campers are asked to make a commitment payment each year.directly to Camp for All Kids. The payment for 4 week campers is $200 and the payment for 8 week campers or CIT/LT participants is$350. Payment amounts are flexible and Camp for All Kids will work with families to make financial arrangements that best accommodate their needs.

For costs outside of family commitment payments, such as airline tickets to and from the charter bus locations, gas money, or hotel stays for families who are traveling to drop their camper off at camp, Camp for All Kids will work to cover partial or full amounts of these expenses as needed.

Camp for All Kids will also work with new camp families to purchase and secure camp supplies and gear such as duffle bags for packing, sleeping bags, camping chairs, bunk organizers, etc. Enrolled camp families will work with the Camp for All Kids program staff to secure the gear they need from their camp’s packing list in advance of the summer.

Who can apply to the Camp for All Kids for new “camperships”?

Black and Brown students currently in 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th grade are encouraged to apply. New campers must attend one of the Camp for All Kids partner schools or be a friend or family member of a current camper enrolled in a camp.

What qualities do applicants need to show in order to be accepted?

Camp for All Kids applicants have mature and model behavior at school and at home. Students should be role models to their peers through their actions and their words. Additionally, parents and/or family members of the students should advocate and communicate effectively on the behalf of the student. Parents and family members will need to complete paperwork and follow camp and program deadlines. There will be support available from the partner schools and the Camp for All Kids program staff.

How do I know if my child is ready to become a camper at an overnight camp? Camp is all about having fun while building friendships and developing social and emotional skills. Camps want to set their campers up for success in these areas and there are certainly some milestones that children should demonstrate before camp begins. These are just some of them:

1. Young people who are ready for the camp experience want to go to camp. They want to have the experience away and grow in their independence while playing and having fun in a primarily outdoor environment. If your child is saying they don't want to go, they're not ready at this time and that's ok!
2. Young people who are ready for the camp experience have skills and abilities to provide their own self care- choosing and serving their own food when there are options, getting dressed and tying their shoes on their own, and demonstrating good hygiene skills are needed for success at camp. Of course there will be camp counselors and staff to help provide reminders, but campers are completing many of their own daily tasks without an adult doing it for them.
3. Young people who are ready for camp practice sleeping away. Sleepovers or nights away with family members or friends are great ways to prepare for the overnight camp experience!
4. Young people who are ready for camp can navigate situations when conflict arises. Being at camp is fun and exciting but there will also be moments of conflict and challenge. Campers who are ready for the experience can navigate these challenges without extreme tantrums or emotional outbursts.

When do new families apply for the “campership?”

New families are invited to apply to Camp for All Kids in late fall. Camperships are awarded by early January. Camperships are given on a rolling first-come-first-served basis, so families who apply early and before Winter Break have a better likelihood of getting a spot at a camp for the following summer.

What is the process to apply for a Camp for All Kids “campership?”

Step #1: Fill out the attached paper application and return it to your school's Camp for All Kids contact or directly to Ariana Smith, Campership and Program School Manager, ariana@campforallkids.org
